General Editions

The journal Scope (Work-based Learning) focuses on contemporary research in assessment of prior learning in, for, and about work, and professional practice. It is concerned with critical debate about practice, theory, and history, and their relationships as manifested in the experiences of learners, practitioners, and researchers in work-based learning and professional practice.

An online version of the journal is available free at <https://thescope.org/journal/>

ISSN (for hardcopy version): 2703-6227;

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Submissions for Scope (Work-based Learning) should be sent by 30 April for review and potential inclusion in the annual issue to: henk.roodt@op.ac.nz; rachel.mcnamara@op.ac.nz

Scope (Work-based Learning) 8 theme: “Work Reimagined: Reframing Power, Practice, and Purpose.”

How are we learning in and through our work? We invite reflections on how power, practice, and purpose are shifting in real work settings. How do people learn through disruption, adapt to new expectations, and navigate the ethical tensions of decision-making? What roles are emerging, what remains hidden, and how is meaning made in the flow of work? We welcome practitioner research, case studies, visual essays, and personal narratives. At its heart, this issue will explore what it means to learn and practise with integrity and purpose in a world of ongoing change.

All submissions will be peer reviewed. Peer review comments will be sent to all submitters in due course, with details concerning the possible reworking of documents where relevant. All submissions must include disclosure of whether and how AI was used in writing the work. All final decisions concerning publication of submissions will reside with the Editors. Opinions published are those of the authors and not necessarily subscribed to by the Editors or Otago Polytechnic.

Contributors retain copyright in their submissions and must obtain permission for the use of any material that is not their own included in their submission. Contributors grant the publishers permission to deposit the published work in our institutional repository.

Except for images, mātauranga Māori, and where otherwise indicated, content will be made available as open access on a Creative Commons Attribution license 4.0.

All images are copyright to the respective artists and photographers.

Mātauranga Māori is a significant component of Aotearoa/New Zealand's heritage, and sharing mātauranga Māori facilitates inter-cultural dialogue and understanding that is in the national interest. However, we recognise that the originating Māori community and/or individual has the primary interest as kaitiaki over the mātauranga and we are therefore committed to ensuring that the sharing, promotion and innovation based on mātauranga Māori respects and enhances its cultural and spiritual integrity, as well as that of the originating community and/or individual.

Submission formats include: editorials, articles, perspectives, essays, research notes and work in progress. Other formats will also be considered.

High standards of writing, proofreading and adherence to consistency through the APA referencing style are expected. For more information, please refer to the APA Publication Manual, 7th edition and consult prior issues for examples. A short biography of no more than 50 words as well as title; details concerning institutional position and affiliation (where relevant); contact information (postal, email and telephone number) and ORCID number should be provided on a cover sheet, with all such information withheld from the body of the submission. Low resolution images with full captions should be inserted into texts to indicate where they would be preferred, while high resolution images should be sent separately. Enquiries about future submissions can be directed to henk.roodt@op.ac.nz; rachel.mcnamara@op.ac.nz.
